Email Drip Campaign

Lessons Learned

1

Authenticity beat polish — UGC-style content consistently outperformed studio-produced ads.

2

Belonging-oriented language (“join your community”) converts better than generic CTAs for a social product.

3

Retargeting delivered the strongest ROI of any single channel tested in this campaign.

4

A single, well-structured A/B test produced an actionable result within days.

5

Live, real-time formats built more trust than scheduled static content.

6

Email nurture sequences remain effective for converting already-warm leads.

Recommendations for Future Campaigns

01

Invest in micro-influencers

Shift budget toward 10K–50K-follower creators for stronger engagement per dollar.

02

Double down on short-form video

Reels consistently delivered the campaign's highest engagement rates.

03

Launch a referral program

Channel strong testimonial sentiment into a structured invite-a-friend mechanic.

04

Extend retargeting windows

Stretch the window from 7 to 14–30 days to capture slower-deciding users.

05

Segment email by behavior

Personalize future sequences based on opens/clicks for sharper targeting.

06

Make A/B testing a standing practice

Run structured creative/copy tests every quarter, not as a one-off.
